COL. W. L. SCRUGGS DIES SUDDENLY

Stricken With Apoplexy While in Bed Last Night.

Native of Tennessee, but Spent Greater Part of His Life in Georgia—Funeral Arrangements Will Be Announced Later.

Colonel William L. Scruggs, author and diplomat, was stricken with apoplexy last night at his home, 383 West Peachtree street, and died shortly before midnight. He was 76 years of age.

Colonel Scruggs was born near Knoxville, Tenn., September 14, 1836, the son of Frederick and Margaret Scruggs. He was educated at Strawberry Plains college, Tennessee, where he graduated in 1857, then going north to complete his course. Finishing school, he became president of a college in Tennessee.

He was admitted to the bar in 1858, and subsequently engaged in newspaper work, being connected with The Columbus, Ga., Daily Sun and The Atlanta News Era.

His diplomatic career commenced in 1872, when he was appointed envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the republic of Colombia, which post he held until 1877. In 1878 he became consul general of China, in 1882 he returned to Colombia, and in 1889 was transferred to Venezuela.

In 1894 he became legal adviser and special agent to the republic of Venezuela, accomplishing diplomatic triumph in the adjudication of the Anglo-Venezuelan boundary dispute, which was settled in 1897.

As an author and authority on international law, he was ranked at the head of his profession. Among his works which have had wide circulation and which brought him many honors, are "Origin and Meaning of the Monroe Doctrine," "British Aggression in Venezuela," "Evolution of American Citizenship," and many others. He was a member of the Authors' club of London.

In Atlanta Colonel Scruggs always took a leading part in the progress of the city. He was one of the founders of the present public school system, and of Atlanta's first public library, the Young Men's library association, now the Carnegie library. He was a member of the Second Baptist church.

Colonel Scruggs was married to Miss Judith Anne Potts, of Virginia, who was killed some years ago in a wreck between Atlanta and Lake Springs, Tenn., of their union five children survive them—W. E. Scruggs, of Atlanta; Mrs. M. S. Robinson, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. E. Jenkins, of Manila, P. I.; Mrs. C. L. G. Anderson, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Maude Scruggs, of Atlanta.

The funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

Court Pays Tribute to Negro.
Mobile, Ala., July 18.—Circuit Court Judge Samuel B. Brown adjourned court today out of respect for Harry Kinney, an old anti-bellum negro, who for over forty years was janitor of the county courthouse. Attorneys and officials of the county stopped business to pay tribute to the dead negro. Kinney handled between the county treasurer's office and the banks of the county millions in his service for the county, and not a cent was ever out of the way. He was 74 years of age.

German Aviator Killed.
Leipzig, Saxony, July 18.—Lieutenant Reusser, a German military aviator, was killed today while making a landing after a night. The machine turned over twice after it struck the ground, the aviator being caught beneath the engine.

AFTER SLAYERS OF THE GAMBLER
Friend of Police Officer Becker
Is Under Arrest.

New York, July 18.—The trail leads where I thought it did," remarked District Attorney Whitman late today. This was just after he had heard the statement of "Jack" Rose, the friend of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and the man who hired the gray automobile in which the slayers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, drove to the spot where their victim met his fate early last Tuesday morning. Little by little the involved skein of motives and personalities behind the killing is being unraveled and tonight it seemed probable that other important arrests would follow speedily.

Rose's surrender and confession that he hired the "murder car," although declaring that he was not in it at the time of the shooting, were the big events of the day in the pursuit of the band who shot down the man who had accused members of the police with being in partnership with gamblers.

Mayor Gaynor Takes a Hand.
Other developments of interest and significance were not lacking, however. Mayor Gaynor took a personal hand in the investigation, sending for Lieutenant Becker, against whom Rosenthal's first specific charges were made, and three other policemen, and being closeted for a long time with them in company with Police Commissioner Waldo. The outcome of the consultation was not made known, but

ARBITRATION BOARD HEARING DEMANDS OF 29,670 RAILROAD ENGINEERS

RAILROAD ARBITRATION BOARD IN SESSION

The board of arbitration recently appointed is holding daily sessions at the Oriental hotel, Manhattan Beach, on the demand of 29,670 engineers on fifty-two railroads east of Chicago and north of the Norfolk and Western for increased wages, that will amount to $7,500,000 a year. The engineers first made their demands on March 18, and after a series of meetings the railroads denied the increase on the ground that it would be ruinous to them. The engineers voted to strike, and a tieup was prevented only by the agreement to arbitrate. Both sides agreed to accept the decision of the commission. The railroads are represented by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the engineers by P. H. Morrissey, former president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The five other members, who were chosen by the chief justice of the supreme court, the presiding judge of the United States commerce court and the commissioner of labor, are Oscar Straus, chairman; Charles Richard Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin; Frederick Newton Judson, a St. Louis lawyer; Otto M. Eidlitz, a prominent New York contractor, and Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of The Review of Reviews. When Mr. Straus called for the representatives of each side Warren C. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said that he and M. W. Cadle would present the demands. The railroads appear by B. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago and Alton; O. F. Butterfield, general counsel for the New York Central; Francis J. Gowan, counsel for the Pennsylvania, and G. E. Brownell, the Erie's lawyer. From left to right the members of the board are Mr. Morrissey, Mr. Van Hise, Mr. Judson, Mr. Straus, Dr. Shaw, Mr. Eidlitz and Mr. Willard.

FARMERS' TAX ACT WINS TEST VOTE

Will Come Up for Special Order on July 25.

But Will Relieve Farmers of Tax on Products for One Year—Must Be Ratified by the People at the Next Election.

The "farmers' tax exemption act," to remove the tax from farm products for one year, went before the house of the general assembly at noon yesterday and the test vote taken on the motion to indefinitely postpone the measure resulted in the opponents of the bill being ignominiously defeated by a vote of 123 to 6. The prospects of passing the bill with the constitutional majority loom big.

"I don't think there is a doubt but that the bill will pass," said Representative Johnson, of Bartow, chairman of the committee on agriculture and author of the bill. The farmers of Georgia are making a fight to be able to market the cotton crop every twelve months, and by removing the tax from farm products the legislature will be taking the greatest step in the direction of aiding them.

The bill will enable the farmers of Georgia to hold the cotton crop for high prices. That was the primary object in the minds of Representatives John P. Turpeese, of Clay, and Johnson, of Bartow, when the bill was introduced. The bill does not touch cotton held in warehouses, and therefore cannot be placed in the category of class legislation as being favorable to the large planter and against the small farmer.

People Must Ratify Act.
The bill provides a constitutional amendment. It authorizes the general assembly of Georgia to make the exemption, but must be submitted to the people of the state to be voted on at the next general election for ratification or rejection. The opponents of the bill raised the cry that it was a piece of class legislation, that it would operate in favor of the planter with a large crop in warehouses, and against the small farmer who has not enough cotton to put in the warehouse until market time.

"It is a dangerous piece of legislation," was the cry raised against the bill by Representative Harrell, of Stewart. "You exempt the large farmer and place the burden upon the small farmer."

The bill was explained in detail by Chairman Johnson. He said that any one who regarded the bill as class legislation was misguided and in ignorance of the true intent of the measure. He said that the farmers of the state have been making a fight for twelve months and that they would only be able to do so under the provisions of the bill.

"It is a piece of dangerous legislation," Representative Massengale, of Warren, broke in.
He voted against the postponement of the bill, however, and explained that he thought it should be given a fair show before being sent to defeat.

Special Order for July 25.
The bill came before the house on a resolution by Mr. Johnson, of Bartow, to make it the special order for July 25, immediately after unanimous consent.

Representative Harrell, of Stewart, substituted the motion to indefinitely postpone the bill, and made an appeal for its defeat.

THREE PERSONS ARE CUT IN FIGHT AT GRANT PARK WHEN PRIVATE DANCE IS INVAD- ED

Twelve men, some of whom were drinking, it is alleged, invaded a private dance at Grant Park last night about 11 o'clock, and as a result W. W. Waits, terminal superintendent of the Southern railway, his son, Reese, and A. G. Herndon, of 9 Kirkwood avenue, were dangerously wounded in a fight which resulted over one of the men having requested a dance of Mr. Waits' daughter.

Mr. Waits and his son were rushed in a private automobile to the Atlanta hospital. Herndon, his neck badly slashed, was carried to police station, where he was charged with suspicion. Mr. Waits was slashed across the cheek, leaving a gaping wound extending from the left ear to the corner of the mouth, and was struck across the head with a whisky bottle. Reese Waits was also hit with a bottle, but he was able to leave the hospital after having his wounds dressed. His father's condition, however, is serious, and at 2:30 o'clock this morning he was unconscious.

The fight was witnessed by a large number of men and women. Several young girls, attending the dance, fainting during the conflict, and for a while it appeared as though others beside Mr. Waits and his son would have to be sent to the hospital.

Large Crowd Present.
Three hundred or more pleasure seekers gathered around the scene of the fight while it was being waged, and in the large crowd the twelve gangsters managed to escape the police when Waits fell wounded and bleeding to the floor of the dancing pavilion. Policeman C. H. Bailey arrested Herndon as he stepped behind a huge column, blood flowing freely from the gash in his throat.

Mr. Waits, his wife, his son, Reese, and his daughter, were entertaining a party of sixteen young men and women, most of the latter of whom were visitors from Chicago, at a private dance in the pavilion at Grant park. The affair began rather late, and about 10:30 o'clock twelve well-dressed young men, whom the police allege compose a gang which infests the public parks of the city, put in their appearance.

They fled in by twos, and were congregated around the small dancing place, sitting upon the banister railing, and standing about the pavilion. At first, because of the large crowd that the newcomers were guests. Several of the bolder men became engaged in short conversations with many of the women guests, and one intruder managed to dance with a member of the dancing party.

Asked Daughter for Dance.
Encouraged by his success, he requested a dance of Miss Waits when the music began for the next waltz. Her father, standing a few feet away, heard the gangster's request and interfered before his daughter could accept.

"Are you a member of this party?" he asked the stranger.
He received a curt "No" for an answer, and then ordered the man away from the pavilion. The latter replied that he would not leave the dance "until he was good and ready," and Mr. Waits struck him a fist blow full in the face. The young man retaliated and was reinforced by two of his friends. Mr. Waits was struck upon

Meeting of the Week—Several Amendments Are Proposed—Minor Matters Before City Fathers.

The city council yesterday afternoon referred several charter amendments to the committee on tax and ordinances, which meets Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock, wrangled for half an hour about the city paving the sidewalks in front of a piece of property it purchased, and then adjourned until Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. This will make the third meeting council has held this week.

The charter amendments which council has been called upon to consider and which were approved at a caucus of fourteen, are as follows:

New Charter Amendments.
To allow city boards to fill vacancies by election by death or resignation by electing successors for the balance of the unexpired term; to allow the city council to fill vacancies in its own body by electing until the following city election; to change the pension law by making the term of continuous service thirty instead of twenty years and the age limit 65 instead of 60 years and to include teachers and other officials who have served as long as thirty-five years, the same to be retired on half pay, provided the salary is not more than $100 a month; to allow the city to revoke any license for any hotel, lodging house, boarding house or locker club; to allow the city to make a zone in which there shall be no surface closets; to allow the city to extend sewers from the trunks to property lines at the cost of the property owner; to allow the city to put down a zone of street pavement it wishes without petitions from property owners.

Will Be Acted on Saturday.
All the proposed charter amendments were referred to the joint committees on tax and ordinances, which meets Friday afternoon and which will report to the council Saturday.

Street Road Committee.
Alderman Madox opposed the resolution, stating that when the city made everybody else lay sidewalks it ought to pave its own sidewalks. Hatchett, stating that the city did not have the money, as the work would cost about $10,000.

After there had been a number of speeches, pro and con, the resolution was referred to the street committee with instructions to report to council on Saturday. The street committee meets Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Acting Mayor Pro Tem.
The following members of the council as members of the committee of twenty to make a report on a street bond issue: Councilmen Hatchett, Boynton, Haverty, Baskin, Hall, Sisson, Vaughan, Andrews and Chambers and Alderman Ragsdale. The ten citizens who will form a part of the committee will be appointed by Mayor Winn some day next week.

"PROTECTION" MONEY PAID BLEASE OFFICIAL BY CONFESSED "TIGER"

TITLEBAUM WILL MAKE AFFIDAVIT

Regarding Accuracy of the Dictagraph Record.

Stenographer Who Took Notes
at Spartanburg Hotel for 5
Hours During Reed-Nichols
Conversation Will Make Oath to What He Heard.

An affidavit to the truth and accuracy of the dictagraph record taken down of the conversation between E. S. Reed, the Burns detective who was posing as a Chicago attorney, and Sam J. Nichols, the South Carolina lawyer, who is alleged to have been the "go-between" for Governor Blease in the sale of pardons, will be made by S. N. Titlebaum, the Atlanta stenographer who took down the conversation, this morning in T. B. Felder's office.

The affidavit will state that at no time during the conversation in the Spartanburg hotel did Nichols seem to be in the least incoherent or under the influence of any drug or liquor, and that Titlebaum would certainly have known it if he had been in the least affected by anything of that nature. It will declare that the conversations covered about five hours of actual time, that no alteration was made in the original notes, and that nothing was left out of or added to what was said in the conversation.

The affidavit will absolutely refute the sworn testimony of Sam Nichols before the investigation committee at Columbia yesterday when he declared that much of the dictagraph record of the conversation was untrue, and that a number of substitutions had been made. The only time that Nichols could have become intoxicated, the affidavit will state, was after the conversation when the attorney and the detective went to a club or some other place where they would obtain something to drink.

S. N. Titlebaum, the stenographer who took the dictagraph notes, and who will this morning sign the affidavit, is one of the best-known public stenographers in Atlanta, and is considered at the top-notch of his profession. He reported only the conversation which took place in the Spartanburg hotel.

In answer to Blease's threat to show that Burns and his agents are crooks and liars, Attorney C. B. Felder said yesterday afternoon:

"When Burns made his revelations in the San Francisco graft cases he was called a criminal, a grafter and a thief, yet Abraham Lincoln, leader of the gang, was sent to the penitentiary for fifteen years. Later, in the Los Angeles dynamiting case, he was published over all the world as a criminal of the most vicious type and a menace to society. In spite of the charge of subordination of perjury against him, the men whom he charged with the crime did not wait for their trial to come to an end, but confessed and are now serving long-term sentences."

"Denunciation of agents who ferret out and expose crime are the weapons employed by criminals when they are trying to lead the public and abate themselves, but if the people of South Carolina will wait until the proper time, they will find that Blease will follow in the same path as did the other men exposed by Burns."

Mayor Upset at Commerce Dinner
Falls Backwards During Talk on Municipal Evils.

Mayor Winn was completely upset last night at the chamber of commerce dinner, when Frederic J. Paxton was outlining the plans for the new bureau of municipal research, which is intended to remedy evils in city government and eliminate such criticisms as have been current recently concerning various departments.

"This bureau is to work with the city officials to remedy existing evils," said the speaker. "Some people are saying we have an inefficient construction department, some think our sanitary department is lacking, others criticize the defects in."

At this juncture Mayor Winn took a header with reverse English, falling over backwards in his chair while the mayoral legs went high in the air.

"It is not our intention to upset the mayor of the government," went on Mr. Paxton, while a delighted howl went up from the assembled diners, "but to set him on his feet."

The mayor was righted by two friends, his clear still pointing to the heavens, his dignity unruined except for a slight flush.

"Mr. Speaker," he said deliberately, "I had a false back behind me. He had been sitting in front of the white curtain hung out from the wall to show the stereopticon slides on."

"Perhaps, but you did not go after the whitewash, for you do not need it."

The incident caused much amusement, coming as it did, and the speaker proceeded with all the more zest.

IT WAS LIQUOR TALKING,
SAYS ATTORNEY NICHOLS

Alleged "Go-Between" Swears
He Was Drunk When Dictagraph Was Recording His Words—He Denies That He Ever Offered to Bribe Governor Blease.

Columbia, S. C., July 18.—"It was liquor talking," was the explanation given today by Attorney Samuel J. Nichols, of Spartanburg, of the sensational dictagraph records introduced by Detective E. S. Reed, of the Burns agency, at the Felder-Bleas hearing held by the legislative committee in Augusta last Saturday.

Nichols admitted that he might have said some of the things credited to him by the dictagraph, but stated that he was drunk and not responsible. Nichols made sweeping denial that he had any intention of offering a bribe to Cole L. Bleas, governor of South Carolina, for a pardon for a notorious yeggman. The Spartanburg attorney testified that he was in an intoxicated condition when the interview recorded by a telephone device between Detective E. S. Reed and himself took place. He also charged that the records of conversations made at Spartanburg and Washington had been distorted by the stenographer.

Didn't Know What H. Was Saying.
Reed introduced the records of the conversations at the Augusta hearing of the committee last week. The records contained startling charges of official corruption in South Carolina.

Sam J. Nichols, who was charged by Detective Burns with having been employed by him to buy a pardon for the notorious yeggman, Johnson, admitted many parts of the dictagraph conversation with Reed alias "Porter," but said that he was drunk at the time and didn't know what he was talking about. He was borne out in his statement as to his drunken condition at the time he started to Baltimore with "Porter" by his father, who saw him when leaving, and by C. P. Sims and Editor Calvert, of The Spartanburg Journal.

Nichols denied having sent any O. K. telegram to "Porter," as published in an Atlanta paper, but said that the only one he sent was from Blacksburg, S. C., to "Porter," as follows: "Things do not look good to me; come to Spartanburg." He said that he never mentioned the pardoning of Johnson to Governor Bleas, and did not expect to do so until after the election.

Nichols denied that he had any arrangement for the governor to receive a part of the "fee" for obtaining this pardon, and said that the $10,000 fee he was to get was to have been divided between he and his partner, Sims. He was a willing witness, and made a good impression. A crowded house listened to his testimony.

BOLL WEEVIL IS DUE NEXT YEAR

State Asked for $25,000 to Be Used in Fight Against the Pest.

The Mexican boll weevil may be in the southwestern part of Georgia next year. The little pest is devastating cotton crops in the center of the southern portion of Alabama and is traveling at the rate of 50 miles a year.

This was the information imparted to the committee on appropriations of the general assembly by Government Expert Knapp and was given as one of the reasons why the state should appropriate $25,000 to co-operate with the federal government in farm demonstration work.

The government is working with the farmers of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas, to exterminate the boll weevil. The demonstration work alone is estimated to be worth $5,000,000 to the farmers of Georgia, and if the work can keep down the loss in the cotton crop which is bound to follow the invasion of the boll weevil, it will be worth many millions more.

"We are not asking the state of Georgia for one cent," declared Mr. Knapp. "If the state wants to appropriate this $25,000 to co-operate with the government in the work we will be glad to have it. The government is spending $38,000 a year in Georgia helping the farmers in their work."

The committee gave the government agents an attentive hearing.

AULT COMMITTEE
BILLS SENT BACK

Their Constitutionality Is Attacked—Other Action Taken by Senate.

The bills introduced by the members of the Ault investigating committee were re-referred upon motion of Senator Bush, after their constitutionality had been questioned by members of the senate.

Thursday the objection to the bills, which are sponsored by Senators Bush, Cromartie and Hargrett, and provide for sweeping innovations in the department of agriculture, is the provision which places the finances of the department in the hands of the state treasurer.

A bill by Senator Whitehead, of the thirty-third, to fix the salaries of county treasurers was recommended for further discussion.

The committee appointed at the last session of the legislature to investigate and report to the senate the charges made against Flynn Hargett, messenger of the senate, made his report and exonerated Mr. Hargett from all charges preferred against him. The charges against the messenger were to the effect that he had employed Otis Green, a South Carolina boy as page, and discriminated against another page, who had been employed by the senate. The committee declared all the charges unfounded, having proven to the satisfaction that Green was a Georgia boy.

Change Registration Laws.

A bill, introduced by Senator H. C. Bhalock, of the fortieth, providing sweeping changes in the registration laws of Georgia, was read for the first time. The bill requires tax collectors to keep the registration books open until thirty days before an election instead of closing six months before the date set for the election, as the present law provides.

The bill is along the lines suggested by Governor Brown in his annual message. The governor stated in his message that fully 100,000 persons were disfranchised each year by the present law, it working as a bar to participation on the farmers of the state, who were often deprived from voting on account of the existing law.

Will Consider New County.

The committee on constitutional amendments met Thursday afternoon to consider the bill recently passed in the house creating the new county of Bleckley, to be cut from Pulaski county, and after much discussion decided to again consider the measure Thursday afternoon.

The following bill was introduced: By Senator Douglas—A bill to establish a composite board of medical examiners to protect the people from illegal and unqualified practitioners.

House Bill—To relieve the sureties of J. W. Rushing.

By Senator Edwards—To amend code in relation to the use of convict labor so as to allow counties to contract with other counties for the use of convicts, for a money consideration.

By Senator Shaw—A bill to require railroads to pull mileage on trains.

By Senator Harris—A bill to direct the state treasurer not to draw from state depositories deposits until they are needed to pay state expenses.

LEGISLATIVE GOSSIP.

It begins to look like the appropriations committee will give Mr. Lawrence the $2,000 he is seeking to renovate the walls and floors of the state library. The bill asking for the appropriation was taken from the table and placed on the calendar.

Hon. T. Ragland has been appointed chairman of the committee on enrollment, and Hon. J. R. Spence has been appointed vice chairman. The appointments were announced by Speaker Holder yesterday.

The committee on insurance had another two-hour session with the insurance bill yesterday afternoon, and reported progress.

The committee on appropriations was asked to refund to the Georgia Northern railroad $540 on a return franchise tax.

Philip Welner, of Atlanta, an ardent worker in the interest of juveniles, appeared before the committee yesterday afternoon with an appeal for $25,000 to establish a reformatory in the state for wayward Georgia girls. He made a splendid impression.

The Alexander-Tippins bill was read the second time in the senate Thursday morning, after having been reported favorably from the temperance committee by a vote of nine to eight. Immediately after the reading of the measure Senator Bush said that both sides had agreed on making the bill a special order for next Wednesday.

EIGHT YOUNG RATS
ADOPTED BY A CAT

Columbus, Ohio, July 18.—An official report of the assistant attorney of the state liability board today declares he has discovered a cat at the Goodman place in Hamilton that has adopted a nest of eight young rats. The mother rat had been killed by employees of the plant.

The report says the cat is mothering the rats just as if they were her own offspring.

PHIL COOK TELLS OF HIS RECEIPTS

Full Financial Report of Office
Given at Request of House.

A statement showing that the receipts of his office amounted to $24,182.50 during the year 1911, and that his salary amounted to only $3,200 per annum, was submitted to the house in accordance with the Hollis resolution by Secretary of State Phil Cook, Thursday morning. The statement was declared by Representative Hollis, of Taylor, author of the resolution, as conflicting with the annual report of the state department, particularly that part which relates to the receipts from the sale of automobile licenses.

Secretary of State Cook explained that there was a slight difference between the figures of his statement and the figures of the annual report, but he said that was because he made a more detailed statement in his report to the legislature.

"I don't know what Mr. Hollis is driving at, or what his object is in digging into this office," Secretary Cook declared. "We have always been friendly. If the public wants to know what I am earning from this office I can say that the constitution provides that the secretary of state shall receive a salary of $2,000 per annum. When the general assembly created the department of state, it also made the secretary of state ex-officio commissioner of same, a salary of $1,200 per annum was allowed, making the full amount of the salary of the secretary of state $3,200 per annum. This is absolutely all that I receive from the state for my services."

The secretary is allowed one clerk, at $1,000 a year, which has been paid since the office was established more than a century ago. The salary of the clerk made necessary by the creation of the corporation and automobile departments is $100 a year. Recently a contingent fund was provided for maintaining the office.

The statement sent to the legislature by Secretary Cook shows that $8,424.50 was received by his department in fees for certified copies and certificates, and out of that sum $112.80 was expended for supplies. The revenues of the office are enumerated as follows: Total receipts of the secretary of state, $8,424.50; automobile department, $13,672; corporation department, $2,176. A total of $24,182.50.

The difference between $24,182.50 and $24,462, which amount $275.46, was deposited in the state treasury, and no part of which was received by the secretary of state for fees or expenses according to the report.

In his report Secretary Cook goes into details as to the operation of the three departments of his office, and points out to the legislature the saving in the cost of printing to the state. Before concluding his report, Secretary Cook asks that the legislature grant him an allowance of $500 a year for the clerk in the automobile department.

SENATE PASSES

MILEAGE BILL

If House Concur, Railroads
Will Have to Pull Mileage on Trains.

The Shaw bill, requiring the railroads of the state to pull mileage on trains, instead of exchanging mileage at the ticket office for tickets, as is now required, was passed in the senate Thursday morning by a vote of 30 to 0.

The bill was introduced on the last day of the 1911 session and has been vigorously fought by the railroads. The passage of the measure in the upper house is considered a victory of much importance by the traveling men of the state, and they will fight to the finish for its passage in the house and before the railroad committee of the house.

The advisability of requiring railroads to pull mileage on trains is now before the railroad commission, which has considered the question for some time, but it is expected that both sides will now center their fight on the passage of the bill in the house.

BILL TO BENEFIT MRS.

CANDLER LIKELY TO PASS

Mrs. Allen D. Candler, widow of former Governor Candler, is now living in Gainesville, Ga. She is operating a boarding house, and her daughter is assisting her by working. She does not possess much of this world's goods, and is in need of the pension which Representative Newsome, of Glascock, is urging the legislature to authorize through his bill. He is being assisted in creating sentiment by Representative Iverson Lord, of Washington county.

The bill was called up yesterday on a motion by Representative Newsome to have it advance to its third reading. The attempt was blocked by Representative Lawrence of Chatham, on the ground that it should not be given preference over matters that have reached the third reading through going via regular channels.

There was little hope of passing the bill a week ago. It was opposed by Representative Joe Hill Hall and others on the ground that it was unconstitutional. Now, it is said, lawyers have declared that the bill is constitutional, and that if it is passed by the legislature it will defy test in the courts.

According to Representative Lord, Joe Hill Hall has also declared that since he made the first statement he learned by studying the bill that it was constitutional, and that he will support it when he returns to his seat in the lower house.

The bill provides that the state shall pay a pension of $100 month to the widows of governors who served in the army during the conflict between the states. The bill eliminates those who have property valued at $1,500 or more.

The bill was designed to assist Mrs. Candler, and would have been advanced had it not been for the fear that was created that it was an unconstitutional measure.

SEWER BONDS WIN

IN CITY OF NASHVILLE

Nashville, Ga., July 18.—(Special.) An election was held here yesterday and $12,000 was voted on for a sewerage system in the city of Nashville and $2,000 was voted on for an addition to the school building. The bonds won by exactly two-thirds majority.

Buy This House and Pay
For It While You Live in It

This is much better, in every respect, than paying out RENT MONEY month after month, without anything to show for it. Instead of living in someone else's house, having trouble every time you want any repairing done, and being bothered regularly with a RENT COLLECTOR.

Get rid of these troubles by buying a nice, comfortable, well-built house in beautiful CAPITOL VIEW. For a small initial payment and small monthly payments ranging from $20 to $25, you can buy one, live in it while you pay for it, and enjoy the real pleasures of life and the genuine comforts of a home.

CAPITOL VIEW houses are built to last. The framing is the very best to be had. It is as good as the framing in the most expensive house on Peachtree street. The lumber is genuine yellow pine, not a stick of old field pine being used. Weatherboarding, shingles, laths, plaster, paint and varnish are the best; rooms have pretty oak mantels, good grates and the best tile. Doors and trim show the high-grade lumber used. If any Capitol View house were placed on a good residence street in Atlanta, you couldn't rent it for the same price it is offered to you to BUY for your own. And then, besides this, you have the additional privilege of living in it while you pay for it.

See MR. W. D. BEATIE, 207 Equitable Building, and get him to carry you out to see this and other pretty homes in this delightful, close-in suburb, any of which you can buy on easy payments, and without having to assume any mortgage, either. Call him over either phone 3520.

New York, July 18.—Henry W. Reusch, whose disappearance some time ago and subsequently examination of his books as delinquent tax collector of Newport gave rise to charges that he had defaulted with about $14,000 of the city funds, surrendered to the police here today. Reusch's bond was fixed at $2,000, which was furnished.

MEN CAUGHT IN POKER

RAID WAIVE EXAMINATION

Although most of them gave fictitious names when arrested, only three of the eight men caught in a poker game in the Aragon hotel Wednesday night failed to appear before Recorder Broyles in police court yesterday afternoon.

The three who were not in court are E. C. Willard, J. C. Irwin and Charles M. May. The recorder ordered accusation proceedings against each of them, and the arrest of May for conducting a gambling establishment. The five who appeared in court waived trial and were bound over to Judge Calhoun's court under $200 bond on the charge of gaming.

The detectives who made the raid allege that May rented room 219 of the Aragon, in which the gamblers were caught, for a period of thirty days, and that this room had been under suspicion for several days prior to the raid. All three appeared in court gave the required bond of $200.

And now the rain-fog is on the hot wave.

And there are legislatures too busy making trouble to take a vacation.

Lorimer may write a book, thus giving his enemies another chance at him.

George Bailey will have to change it to "Governor Hot Blaze," of South Carolina.

However, Taft is not refusing to take the stump because Roosevelt wants it.

No one was waiting for Lorimer's shoes, and his particular toga will go begging.

Since Marse Henry has cooled off, there is a suspicion that he takes his ice straight.

Officials will not be able to blame the railroad wrecks on summer madness, and let them go at that.

And think of the time you'll lose investigating the stamp on your gallon jug, to see if it is on straight.

Forget the thermometer and sweat the summer madness out of you by pushing a harmonious lawmower.

Candidates opposed to the strict investigation of campaign funds should muffle the barrel with the too-loud jungle.

The Houston Post speaks of "oratorical potatoes." Presume they are close connections of intellectual cabbage.

Hang the sign: "Every day's a busy day," and you'll soon feel like writing below it: "Tell with the heat!"

Cheer up! You don't have to make a hot campaign for the presidency, nor sign your name to 10,000 letters a week.

It shouldn't take them so long to recognize the fact that good city streets are as necessary as good country roads.

Three men, who started out to invent the "safety railroad," are now in the harmless ward, but the country hasn't lost hope of it.

It's the Roosevelt primary, the Roosevelt convention and the Roosevelt party—a majority of One, first, last and all the time.

It's a good sign o' the times that the man who used to ask "Is it hot enough for you?" is deep down with the fellow that rocked the boat.

The farmer doesn't want the candidates to "praise him to the skies" just now. Only way he can make good is by sticking to the soil.

The son of former Vice-President Fairbanks won a golf championship medal recently, and a little lightning played upon the features of Father.

"One ray of light comes through the cloud of the high cost of living," says The Savannah Press. But it isn't the high cost catching fire as it comes down.

Doubtless, the United States senate feels greatly relieved, but we shall not be unkind enough to say that there'll be no relief for the people until it adjourns.

Another way to make good times is to take the old, ragged money from the tree beneath which you buried it, sent it to the government laundry to be renovated and then give it sufficient exercise to increase its circulation.

PROTECTING POLICY-HOLDERS.

Among the most imperative duties facing the general assembly is that of enacting into law the bill providing for thorough-going insurance supervision by duly authorized representatives of the state. Existing laws and the method of their enforcement are tantamount to a farce. Further, they indict the reputation of the state, in that they are a positive invitation to fraudulent insurance concerns of various descriptions.

The bill looking to reform was framed by a joint committee of the house and senate, after exhaustive investigation of the situation. In this task they were assisted by experts representing both state and foreign companies. There is nothing drastic, nothing unreasonable nor unjust in the measure as prepared. It gives the state authority to refuse to license shady enterprises whose assets are mainly on paper and whose purposes are of a palpably crooked nature.

Under the present system the comptroller-general, who is also ex-officio insurance commissioner, is forced, for a nominal sum, to license every company that applies, even though his private knowledge may be to the effect that they do not intend to fulfill their promises and that they do intend deliberately to prey upon an unsuspecting public. The practice that places the state's imprimatur upon these legalized pirates is one that should not be allowed to continue for a moment longer than necessary to get a restraining law on the statute books.

Reputable and well-meaning concerns have nothing whatever to fear from the operation of the new law. On the contrary, they court its enactment and aided in the framing of the bill, which, if enacted into law, will make it known to the entire country that any company operating in Georgia is honestly and scrupulously vouched for by a well-established and improved insurance department.

It is imperative to end the state's accidental, but none the less effectual, connivance with fraud. The quicker the bill of the joint committee goes on the statute books and is enforced the better.

A POLICY, AND A SCAPEGOAT.

The attempt in some quarters to evade responsibility for the condition of Atlanta streets and the city's inadequate sewage arrangements has centered in an effort to find a scapegoat in Captain R. M. Clayton, chief of construction. Those engaged in this endeavor seem unable to make the distinction between a man and a policy, and that is essential in placing the blame.

From time immemorial, the municipal policy of Atlanta has been to build for today and not for tomorrow, to seek cheapness in "shoddy" construction, rather than to spend a little more money at the start as being true economy in the long run.

The penalty of this practice is now visited upon us in an effete street system and in a sewer system which, here and there, fails to discharge its functions.

In no spirit of partisanship, but merely for the sake of fair play, The Constitution is unwilling that Captain Clayton should be made the scapegoat for a piddling, cheap, and short-sighted policy that, in a great many instances and as regards his department, has been prosecuted against his better judgment and protest.

Whatever censure is to be handed down should be directed primarily against the policy upon which the city has been operating. In a measure, the entire citizenry has been to blame for permitting public officials to temporize with questions affecting the health and comfort of the people.

This provincial attitude toward public improvements must be abandoned now, henceforth and forever. Atlanta is rich enough and willing to pay for construction that will meet the requirements of the city for today and for a reasonable time ahead.

The case needs only to be presented in the right light in order to insure the permanent establishment of a sane procedure. We cannot afford to fall behind other big cities in our municipal construction, but we will continue so to do unless we wake up, and stay awake.

Meanwhile, it is distinctly out of place to strive to saddle blame upon a man who has served the city upon a fixed policy and exactly as the responsible authorities wanted it to be served—often against the better judgment he has not hesitated to express.

SCOTCHING BIENNIAL SESSIONS.

In its wisdom, the Georgia house of representatives has seen fit to defeat the bill looking to biennial sessions of the general assembly by an overwhelming vote.

Georgia is one of the few commonwealths in the United States still clinging to the annual sessions of the legislature. Other states have seen the advantage of convening their law-making bodies just once in two years, and it is yet to be recorded that the better interests of society suffered from the policy.

As it is now, there is a superfluity of laws on the statute books. Many of them are dead letters, observed in the breach rather than in the observance.

So far as providing for appropriations and the administrative machinery of the state is concerned, that task could be as well discharged every two years as annually. Especially would this hold true, if the measure proposed by Representative Ashley, of Lowndes, whereby the state would catch up with its perennial deficit, is enacted into law.

HE CHALLENGES ADMIRATION.

President Taft's absolute refusal to compromise with the leaders of the Roosevelt wing of the party will, for sheer manliness, challenge the admiration of every red-blooded American.

It appears a practical certainty that both he and the Colonel are leading forlorn hopes. Wickershamism and Hitchcockism and the hatchets of the "bull moose" contingent, together with the transgressions of the republican party in other directions, weigh down Taft. The third term precedent and the enmity of Taft's friends render Roosevelt's election an impossibility. The cohesiveness and harmony of the democratic hosts conspire to impair the chances of either republican element.

But in the face of these almost insuperable handicaps, one cannot withhold respect from the president in electing to stand alone and accept whatever political fortune fate wills him. The Constitution has not hesitated to express its esteem for the broad and non-sectional Americanism of Mr. Taft. When the heat of partisanship has subsided, history will do justice to the big, statesmanlike and lovable Ohioan.

LIGHT ON THE FEE SYSTEM.

By an almost unanimous vote the Georgia house of representatives has done a distinct public service in passing the bill of Representative Spence, of Carroll, which requires all county officers to keep a record of their fees and to make a yearly report of such record to the grand juries of their respective counties. The Constitution was the first daily newspaper in Georgia to urge the wisdom of such a law.

There are two ways of compensating public officials—either by fees or by salary. In either event the public, which pays the bill, has the right to know just what is being received for the performance of a public service.

The bill cannot possibly work harm or injustice to any factor involved. If it is found that under the fee system officials are receiving more than their services justify, the public is entitled to that knowledge. If it is found that officials are being underpaid, the counties will be fair enough to right the wrong.

So obvious is the justice of the bill, that it should pass the senate by a vote as overwhelming as that recorded in the house. Such a law would be a far stride toward the application of business methods in the public affairs of Georgia.

Made Good at Last.
 "I had almost despaired of literary reputation," said the new author, "until I fell out of an airship and landed on a church steeple, waving my cap to the crowd below and receiving three cheers and a hero medal. After that six publishers invited me to dinner, and I've been carving beef at trust prices ever since."

The Restful Place.

 When we sight the pearly gates afar,
 After a life of care,
 Trouble will cease:
 We'll rest in peace,
 For there's never an ice trust there.

 In meadows cool and fair
 Pass plates for honey
 Not sold for money,
 For there's never a food trust there.

 We'll reap the rest of a tranquil land
 In pleasures rich and rare,
 No office to seek
 In a campaign week,
 For there's never a candidate there.

Governor Marshall
 Will Visit Raleigh

Raleigh, N. C., July 18.—Governor W. W. Kitchen was today notified by Governor Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana, democratic nominee for vice president, that if he can possibly do so, he will come to Asheville for a proposed big ratification jubilee.

Governor Wilson, nominee for president, wired his regrets that it would be impossible for him to accept the invitation. The nominees were urgently invited by the Wilson Democratic club of Asheville, joined by Governor Kitchen.

Gossip at the Capitol

Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia, was at the state capitol yesterday morning. Though the chancellor would not give out anything definite, it is understood that he is in the interest of the education bill which proposes to appropriate money for certain work on the normal school at Athens, Ga.

Governor Joseph M. Brown was not in his office yesterday. He had journeyed over to Cherokee county for a short visit. He will probably be at his desk again today.

Hon. Tom Hudson, who only recently withdrew from the gubernatorial race, was yesterday a visitor at the capitol, where he shook hands with a number of his old friends in the senate and house of representatives.

State Game Warden Jesse Mercer was at the capitol yesterday morning. He left the city, however, yesterday afternoon in order to attend to a shipment of live fish to Murray county, Ga., where he will restock Lilly creek.

At the capitol yesterday afternoon there were a number of visitors who were interested in the pending legislative bill regarding the creation of a new county, or, in speaking of Putnam county and to be called Bleckley county.

The committee discussion of the hygiene bill was also attended by several local doctors and others interested in the disposition of that act.

He had no money, but rather than see the child walk home, he borrowed a nickel from a nearby shop and gave it to the girl, then he handed her the nickel and said, "You had better be careful of your money."

BEAUTIFUL MAKE-UP OF WOMEN CAUSED SWARTZ TO LOSE MIND

New York, July 18.—The body of Nathan Swartz, whose father informed the police that his son was the slayer of 14-year-old Julia Connors, was found early today on the fourth floor of a tenement house on Chrystie street. Swartz had committed suicide by inhaling gas. The body was identified by Detective Joseph Brennan.

Swartz had engaged the room eight days ago under the name of Max Hirszkowitz from Max Kaplan's party today Kaplan smelled gas. On investigation he found Swartz in bed with the end of a gas tube tied to his mouth. Examination by a physician showed the man was dead.

Written in lead pencil on his collar were the words:
 "I am guilty and insane. Caused by the beautiful make-up of women, which has made me passionate."

There were several pieces of newspapers lying around, and on one of these was written the sentence:
 "I was sorry the minute after I did it. So don't cry for me."

A letter was found addressed to Swartz's mother, in which he confessed his guilty and insane state. Swartz identified the dead man as his brother. Only a few days ago Swartz's father informed the police that his son had told him that he had killed the Connors girls, to which the father responded that there was nothing left but for the son to commit suicide.

A letter lying on the floor read as follows:
 "New York, July 17, 112.—This is only to tell mother who I am always homesick for, and same to the rest and pa, whose words I am taking by doing. I figure the easiest way to die is to be killed. I know the order to be executed will take that medicine just the same. The last man I worked for was for two days' work. Please secure pay and give to mother, for she's very poor."

"I'm sorry to cause the trouble to my neighbor. Tell mother again that I am really guilty, and she'll not cry for me. I'm innocent. I'm sorry I don't die, but I got crazy, as I often do, and you can't blame me for any more."

Swartz, his landlord said, would have been turned out of his room this morning for failure to pay his rent, and the police thought that, fearful of the ordeal of finding another place of shelter and seeking help, he had taken to commit suicide. Swartz finally brought himself to entertain the idea of suicide, suggested to him by his father.

Editor Constitution: Please allow me space in your paper to call public attention to two bills now pending in the legislature which seem to be good and necessary to the people in point of fact, are bad and injurious.

The bills were introduced in the senate by Mr. Blalock, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, and in the house by Mr. Brown, of the same party. Their purpose is to prohibit the use of any artificial filler in fertilizers. Unless the bills are carefully considered people might naturally conclude that they are a good thing, but it is shown that they will cost the farmers of Georgia hundreds of thousands of dollars each year in needless and excessive freights, the bills will be regarded as injurious and damaging to the farmers instead of helpful to them.

The explanation is simple, and is as follows:
 About nine-tenths of the fertilizers sold in Georgia at the present time are of a grade running about 10-2-2 or 9-2-3 (the first figure in each of these formulas representing phosphoric acid, the second figure representing amounts, the third figure representing potash). These grades are considered satisfactory and are preferred by the vast majority of Georgia's farmers. These grades can be made without any filler if they are made from a low grade phosphate like 14 per cent, low grade ammoniacs like cotton seed meal, 7-1-2 per cent, or low grade tankage, 6 per cent, and from a low grade potash salt like kainit, 12-1-2 per cent.

If a fertilizer is made exclusively out of the highest grade materials like acid phosphate, 17 per cent; nitrate of soda, 18 per cent; pure dried blood, 16 per cent; muriate of potash, 50 per cent; sulphate of potash, 53 per cent, and no artificial filler whatsoever is allowed to reduce or alter the grade to the exact proportion which the farmer wants to buy, then the grade will necessarily be higher than nine-tenths of the farmers are willing to buy, because of the increased price.

Gradually our farmers are calling for higher grade fertilizers, and when they have been satisfied for years with grades averaging around 10-2-2 and 9-2-3, they cannot be forced by law to suddenly change to grades of much higher analysis and greater cost. This evolution in the demand for higher grades must be gradual and of a natural growth and cannot be suddenly forced by legislation.

At the present time many farmers are having their soils analyzed, and to intelligently apply exactly the right fertilizers, and so these soils vary in the amount of phosphoric acid, ammonia and potash that they naturally contain. They must buy varying and unusual fertilizers, such as 3-3-7, 7-4-6, 8-4-4, 10-3-3, etc., and the use by the manufacturer of some filler to act as a balancer, to bring out the exact form called for, is absolutely necessary and essential.

The fertilizer manufacturer must supply the varying grades of goods the farmer orders, and it is impractical to do this if all artificial filler is prohibited by law.

If the Blalock and Cabanis bills are enacted under present conditions of trade with the demand continuing for present grades of the general average of 10-2-2 and 9-2-3, every manufacturer will be compelled to stop buying in any appreciable quantity the high grade materials like muriate of potash, nitrate of soda, sulphate of potash, high-grade dried blood and high-grade tankage, must buy the greatest bulk of his material in the form of the lowest grade potash salt, which is kainit.

It is an actual loss to the farmer to comply with the new law. The bills cannot actually exclude the use of artificial filler in point of fact, for the Chicago packers will promptly reduce the grade of their tankage to the grade ordered by inserting filler in Chicago, and the farmer, instead of paying for a filler produced in Georgia on which there is a freight of about $1 per ton, will pay freight on filler placed in the tankage in Chicago, every pound of which must bear freight charges from Chicago to Georgia amounting to between $5 and $6 per ton.

Muriate of potash contains four times as much plant food (potash) as kainit. Muriate is 50 per cent pure potash, while kainit is only 12-1-2 per cent pure potash. It is, therefore, to the interest of the farmer for the manufacturer to buy one ton of muriate rather than four tons of kainit, because one ton of muriate can be brought from Germany into the interior of Georgia for a total freight cost of about $6 per ton, whereas four tons of kainit containing exactly the same amount of plant food (potash) as one ton of muriate will cost four times as much freight, or $24 in freight instead of $6. This is an actual loss to the farmer.

It is a wise bill that will force manufacturers to buy low grade materials where they are able to get extent buy highest grade materials?

 To Rally at Tabernacle

Friends of education in Georgia will gather Sunday night at a great rally at the Baptist Tabernacle, at which a number of prominent Atlantans will deliver short talks on present educational systems and the need of reform.

J. R. Smith, of Atlanta, chairman of the Bessie Tift college endowment fund committee, will preside and deliver an address. Mr. Smith will urge the refinancing of the public schools of Georgia, believing that only a constitutional amendment providing taxes directly for school use and not to be diverted will solve the problem.

Dr. J. J. Hall, of North Carolina, will deliver a brief address. Dr. Hall will also preach at the morning Tabernacle service. He is the minister who ordained Rev. Len G. Broughton, the famous former pastor of the Tabernacle.

Miss Mattie Morris, president of the Bessie Tift Alumnae association, will be among the speakers. There will be no call for contributions or subscriptions to any fund.

POLICE BELIEVE THEY HAVE SKYLIGHT BANDITS

What the police believe to be the "skylight bandits" who have been operating upon stores and business houses in Decatur street were captured last night by policemen McHugh and West, while attempting to enter Tony's Produce store at 13 Piedmont avenue, through a skylight upon the roof.

They are Ollie Saxton, of 167 E. Hunter street, and Arthur Hill, of 115 Howell street, both young negroes, not over twenty years old. About 9 o'clock last night, police headquarters were notified by a resident on Piedmont avenue near Tony's Produce store that two men were trying to enter the store. Call officers West and McHugh were dispatched on motorcycles, and reached the two-story building just as two forms emerged from the roof skylight.

West guarded the front of the store, and McHugh ran through an alley to the rear. The Saxton negro dropped from the roof, and ran through the alley. McHugh fired his revolver once in the negro's direction, and Saxton halted mid-way between the rear of the store and the alley. He dropped from the roof almost into the policemen's arms.

Both negroes were brought to police station and imprisoned under the charge of burglary. An attempt will be made today to secure a confession from them regarding other skylight burglaries in the vicinity of police headquarters.

EDITORS ENJOY RUN TO BEAUFORT

Members of Georgia Weekly Press Association entertained at Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—Members of the Georgia Weekly Press association to the number of nearly 200 had a great time in Savannah today, being entertained by the Savannah dailies and the chamber of commerce with a steamer trip to Beaufort, S. C. The editors and their ladies arrived on a special train from Dublin Wednesday evening. At 8:30 o'clock this morning they boarded the steamer Cliveden for the run to Beaufort, where dinner was enjoyed at the Sea Island hotel. The party returned to the city tonight in time to get a train for Tybee. They enjoyed the day immensely.

RETURNS TO PANAMA TO ESCAPE THE HEAT

New York, July 18.—Panama is so much cooler than this state has been for the past few weeks that Joseph B. NORRIS KOCKS TAFT AND ASKS NEW PRIMARY

Washington, July 18.—Representative Norris of Nebraska, a Roosevelt supporter, in a letter sent to the chairman of the Nebraska state republican committee, asks for another senatorial primary in which his republican nominee is to be tried and a new set of instructions be voted to candidates for Roosevelt and Taft elections. He proposes that electors for both sides stand by the result.

Mr. Norris made the proposal in reply to criticism in his state, and published demands that he support President Taft or get off the republican ticket.

"I am a believer in the recall," said Mr. Norris in his letter. "I am willing that it should be applied to me, and if, since my nomination, my course in refusing to recognize Mr. Taft as the republican nominee is unsatisfactory to the republicans who nominated me, I am not only willing, but I believe it is my duty to withdraw."

"Under no circumstances can I be induced to support a man for office whose nomination I conscientiously believe to have been obtained by the corrupt and unlawful methods which I believe were perpetrated in the so-called nomination of President Taft, and if my nomination, or even my election, must depend upon such support, then I much prefer to remain in private life."

MACON ELOPERS EVADE PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Lisle Await Forgiveness in Atlanta.

Macon, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—Somewhere in Atlanta are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Lisle, of Macon, awaiting parental forgiveness that so far has not been forthcoming.

Mrs. Lisle was formerly Miss Hilda Bunch, daughter of J. E. Bunch, of Macon. She is only 15 years of age. Yesterday she and Mr. Lisle decided to outwit her parents and get married despite objections. They hastened to the office of a justice of the peace and after the ceremony hurried to Vineville, where they caught a train for Atlanta.

JUSTICE MCKERVEY PLEASED BY JUSTICE COURT BILL

Macon, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Hugh McKervy, justice of the peace in East Macon, is elated over the passage of the bill by the house which gives cities of 20,000 inhabitants and over the privilege of abolishing the justice courts and establishing a municipal court. While the new law will have the effect of taking Judge McKervy's job away from him, that fact does not worry him one bit. He has held the office for several years and has never accepted a fee for marrying a couple and has never tried a case. That does not mean that he has not been called on to try cases, for he has, but he takes the better way around and settles the cases out of court, saving the litigants the costs of court.

"These people here in East Macon are all my friends," says Judge McKervy, "and we do things here in a friendly way."

Speaking of the bill abolishing justice courts he says, "Unless properly administered the justice courts can be used for graft and they should be abolished. If I wanted to I could make the office in East Macon pay me $5,000 a year. The judge hopes Macon will be the first city to recall the justices."

HERBERT KNOX SMITH SUCCEEDED BY CONANT

Washington, July 18.—Herbert Knox Smith, who resigned as commissioner of corporation to join the new progressive party, formally retired from office today. He turned the commission over to Luther Conant, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., the deputy commissioner of corporations, who has been nominated by President Taft as Mr. Smith's successor.

Mr. Smith will confer with Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay Saturday, and later he expects to look after the new party movement in Connecticut.

Mr. Conant takes up the work with several important investigations of corporate conditions well under way. These include the International Harvester company, several phases of water transportation, prices and cost of tobacco manufacture, cotton fare and competitive methods in the lumber industry.

FISH RECEIVED FOR HOLLY CREEK

Game Warden Gets Big Supply to Replace Those That Were Killed.

State Game Warden Jesse Mercer yesterday received from the chief of bureau of fisheries at Washington, D. C., ten cases of fish, which he will use in restocking Holly creek, a stream near Chattahoochee, Murray county, Georgia.

It will be remembered that last month a warrant was sworn out against several employees of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. At a freight train wreck on a trestle over Holly creek the wrecking crew came upon several barrels of liquid acid. The authorities in charge, it is alleged, deliberately and against the protests of the complaining citizens, emptied the acid into the river. The result was that for miles down the stream the many thousands of fish perished. Stock watering at Holly creek was also greatly injured. As a result of the charge of this deliberate crime, V. T. Kenner, the Murray county warden, demanding the prosecution of the Louisville and Nashville workmen, swore out a warrant against them.

State Warden Mercer, on hearing of the destruction of the Holly creek fish stock, immediately sought the aid of the national bureau of fish at Washington. Today he received in Atlanta ten cases, containing 2,500 black bass and 700 broom fish. With this fresh supply the warden left yesterday afternoon for Chattahoochee, where he hopes to rebuild the now depleted stock of Holly creek.

AUSTRALIA FEARS AMERICAN PACKERS

Melbourne, Australia, July 18.—Answering a question in the house of representatives yesterday with reference to the report that the American beef combine was establishing a big meat packing works in Australia, Premier Fisher said:

"The government will spare no efforts and no expense and will use all the means in its power, to protect Australia from the rapacious which has characterized the operations of the American beef trust in other countries."

Brisbane, Queensland, July 17.—Regarding the report that American meat packers are settling up a big meat packing works here, a representative of the company concerned denied yesterday that it was a branch of the American beef combine. He declared it was a Queensland company, and that it would be registered here.

MANY UNITED STATES SENATORS FORCED TO DEFEND THEIR TITLES

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(Special.)—Since William Blount, of Tennessee, was expelled from the senate in July, 1797, for conspiracy against the government in attempting to bring together certain Indians and British agents, many senators of the United States have been called on to defend their titles to their seats.

The most notable recent case was that of John H. Mitchell, of Oregon, who, on January 17, 1905, arose in the senate and addressed himself to the charges made against him that, in 1902, he had conspired with Blingo Hermann, commissioner of the land office, to defraud the government out of public lands.

During the trial it was brought out that Mr. Mitchell had received $2,000 from S. A. D. Pullen in this connection. Before the case came to a vote, Mr. Mitchell resigned. He was indicted by the federal grand jury, convicted and sent to the penitentiary.

William A. Clark, of Montana, was elected to the senate as a democrat in December, 1899, to succeed Lee Mantic, a republican, an investigation was ordered, and the committee reported adversely on Mr. Clark's right to retain his seat.

Before this resolution was acted upon Senator Clark, on May 15, 1900, announced that he had resigned. He was appointed by the governor to the vacancy thus created, but did not present his credentials. He carried the fight before the people, and a legislative ticket favorable to him was elected, and in January, 1901, he was chosen as the successor of Senator Thomas H. Carter.

Joseph R. Burton, of Kansas, who was convicted in the state courts for using the mails for fraudulent purposes and receiving pay for services rendered before a department of the government. On May 22, 1906, Senator Eugene Hale, of Maine, offered a resolution of investigation. It was held that the judgment of the courts did not operate ipso facto to vacate the seat of a senator or compel the senate to expel him. Burton resigned to the governor on June 4, before the senate had acted.

John Smith, a senator from Ohio, won out by the narrow margin of one vote in 1897 when threatened with expulsion for reasonable conspiracy.

John C. Breckenridge and other southern senators were similarly expelled in 1861 for having conspired against the government of the United States and borne arms against them. During the war, resolutions of expulsion were drawn up against various senators for giving encouragement to the confederacy, included among these being Jesse D. Bright, of Kentucky. The charge against Davis was that he had written a letter containing this sentence:

"The people north ought to revolt against their war leaders and take this great matter into their own hands." Mr. Davis explained that he did not mean to incite insurrection, and the resolution to expel was withdrawn.

The case of Alexander Caldwell, of Kansas, in the forty-second congress, was similar to the Lorimer case. It mil.

STATE OF THE UNION PAINTED AS DEPLORABLE

Washington, July 18.—To stem the tide of the high cost of living and other evils, the creation of a new standing committee in the house is proposed in a resolution introduced today by Representative Lindbergh, republican, of Minnesota. The committee would be known as the committee on industrial relations, and would have supervisory relations with bills or measures affecting the economic welfare of the country.

In a preamble to his resolution, Mr. Lindbergh sets forth to the extent of 4,000 words a graphic description of the deplorable state of the union. He finds that the cost of necessities is going higher and necessities are greater than ever before, "due to the wasted energy of the country, its misdirected effort and complete vassalage to the monopolies."

The tendency to trusts, the herding of the populace in the cities, the burden on the people of paying profits of dividends and rents entirely out of proportion with the service performed, and other ills are developing rapidly and so surely that Mr. Lindbergh finds "bankruptcy, panic, social revolution and anarchy" threaten the nation.

RINGGOLD MEN CHASE ASSAILANT OF WOMAN

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 18.—News reached this city tonight of an attempted assault on the wife of Elbert Harris, a resident of Ringgold, Ga., by an unknown negro. The negro was frightened away by the woman's screams. Tonight a posse of nearly one hundred Georgians is in pursuit of the negro and a lynching is not improbable if the culprit is captured.

M'NAMARA REMAINS IN PRISON DUNGEON

McNamara was placed in solitary confinement when he refused to obey an order given by a guard in the jail.

Wellhouse-Bradley.

One of the prettiest of the mid-summer weddings was that of Miss Bertha Ermens Wellhouse and Mr. Richard Rumel Bradley, which took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sophia Wellhouse, at 328 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Father Rapier, of the Sacred Heart church, performed the ceremony, and the attendants were Miss Agnes Klein, maid of honor; Mrs. Leo Wellhouse, of Richmond, matron of honor; Mr. Henry Wellhouse, of Richmond, best man; Miss Bertha Langley, of Pensacola, bride's maid.

The bride wore an elegant toilette of baby Irish lace over white satin, and her bouquet was of orchids showered with valley lilies.

The maid of honor wore chintz lace over green satin. The bride's maid wore pink chiffon over blue satin. The matron of honor was gowned in white lace, and Mrs. Wellhouse, the bride's mother, wore black satin and lace.

The wedding was in tableau, and there was appropriate music by Miss Furlow Anderson, who sang, and Miss Elmina Grow, at the piano.

The bride party was grouped under an arch of ferns and pink roses, between the large living room and parlors. The house was decorated throughout with pink roses, asparagus fern, and palms, and in the dining room a handsomely appointed table was in pink and white, the wedding cake forming the centerpiece. A large basket of pink roses was set on the mantel, which was banked with palms. Punch was served from a bowl embedded in ferns, Miss Charlotte Fogg and Miss Hazel Hinman presiding there. Others assisting were Misses Julia Fogg, Mary Lenney and Dolly Lenney.

After an informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Bradley left for a three weeks' trip in the northwest and Canada, and they will make their home in Atlanta.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wellhouse, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Aymard, of Monticomey; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Horster, of Pensacola.

KEROSENE IS CONDEMNED BY COMMISSIONER CONNER

Fifteen thousand gallons of kerosene, stored in the local tanks of the Texas Oil Company, were condemned yesterday afternoon by the state department of agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture Conner stated that he had heard that the oil was below standard and asked for a sample. He had the specimen tested by the flash light test. The chemist found the oil to contain enough gasoline to be pronounced contaminated and illegal for sale in this state.

The local agent for the Texas Oil Company says that the oil will be sent back to the home office in Texas. Some oil, it is stated, which came from an impure source, was shipped away from the Texas house, but it is being recalled.

Troop Receives Highest Mark in Inspection at Camp Pettus.

Camp Pettus, Annapolis, Ala., July 18. (Special.)—The Georgia soldiers at Camp Pettus now feel like regals. The camp is now in good shape and the hard work of making camp is over. The grounds around the tents have been cleared of leaves and swept until the camp is pleasing to see and somewhat permanent looking.

Thursday morning the infantry boys marched a few miles in battalion formation and deployed through the woods. The second squadron of cavalry, Georgia, left camp at 8 o'clock in the morning and rode along narrow country roads for several miles, where light maneuvers were held. No powder has been used in any action so far, and no blank cartridges issued yet.

The Governor's Horse Guards, of Atlanta, made the highest mark at inspection of any troop in camp, which was quite an honor, as all of the troops worked hard for this distinction. The second squadron will be divided into sections of two troops each Friday and a sham battle will be held.

The Governor's Horse Guards and the boys from Gainesville will combat with the farmer lads of McIntosh and a troop from Augusta. Blank cartridges will be used. The fifth regiment will engage in sham battle with another regiment Friday, and the real maneuvers will then be on.

Thus far the camp has been very uneventful. All the boys are well satisfied, and have fallen in love with the camp life. The behavior has been excellent.

J. P. ALLEN WILL OPEN NEW DEPARTMENT SOON

An important event to shopping Atlanta for the coming fall will be the opening of J. P. Allen and Company's fancy goods department, which will take place September 1. The new department will occupy the entire front of the first floor.

It will be the company's object at this opening to display the very latest exclusive novelties in gloves, neckwear, jewelry, leather goods, handkerchiefs, hosiery, ribbons, veils, umbrellas, etc., which will be brought to Atlanta from all the important fashion centers of the globe.

C. F. Ursenbach, who will manage this department, has had years of experience in these lines and until recently was connected with M. Rich and Brothers Company, where for five and a half years he managed one of the most successful departments of this kind in the south.

The J. P. Allen Company, feeling the need of an exclusive ladies' furnishings department, negotiated with Mr. Ursenbach to assume entire charge. It is needless to say that this will be another one of the attractions of the store.

Mr. Ursenbach leaves for New York in a few days to be gone four weeks purchasing the stock for the new department.

WELLS DEFEATS TOM KENNEDY

The Bombardier Knocks Out His Man in the Eighth Round.

New York, July 18.—Bombardier Wells, heavy-weight champion of England, knocked out Tom Kennedy, of New York, after two minutes and 41 seconds of fighting in the eighth round of their bout here tonight.

The knockout came as the culmination of the fastest fight seen here since the days of the Horion law. The deciding blow was a right smash to the head which sent Kennedy down, his head striking the lower rope. The referee counted Kennedy out and his seconds carried him to his corner. Once down, Kennedy was unable to get to his feet for a count of nine. When Wells looked his left to the face and sent his right to the jaw.

Wells was by far the quicker throughout the fight, which was scheduled to go ten rounds, and his idea of direction was excellent. Kennedy in some of the rounds accepted enough punishment to knock out an ordinary man, but he stuck to his work. Although he was outclassed and outboxed all the way, he made a plucky fight. Wells, while he put his man up with a rain of blows, was unable to get Kennedy under control until the middle of the eighth round.

Both men entered the ring at 191½ pounds before entering the ring and both were in perfect condition.

BAN IS LIFTED ON ABE ATTELL

Albany, N. Y., July 18.—The six months ban placed on Abe Attehl, feather-weight champion, by the New York state athletic commission was lifted today. The commission suspended Attehl for alleged faking in a bout here with Knockout Brown, and ordered him not to enter or participate in a bout in any boxing club in this state.

It is said that the former champion will return to New York in the near future to attempt to recoup some of his lost fame and fortune. Attehl is at the present time on the Pacific coast. He will meet Tommy Murphy in a twenty-round bout next month in San Francisco.

Should Attehl decide to return here he will probably seek a return match with Johnny Kilbane at one of the local clubs.

BRITONS MAY USE COLONIES AT GAMES

London, July 18.—The Canadian, Australian and African athletes at Stockholm, according to the correspondent of The Times in that city, favor entering a single team from the whole empire in future games instead of entering the colonies separately. "We have an anxiety in the case of the United States," adds the correspondent, "where the teams include negroes, red Indians and Hawaiians."

St. Arthur Conan Doyle, in a letter to The Times, strongly advocates the foregoing plan, and says: "It would go further and seek among the Ceylon or Malay swimmers, Indian runners and Sikh wrestlers for possible winners."

Doves Buy Noyes.

SENATE TO VOTE ON TARIFF BILLS

The Democrats Force the Republican Leaders to an Agreement.

Washington, July 18.—The senate reached an agreement late today to vote upon the three principal democratic tariff and finance bills late next week. The measures will be taken up as follows:

Wool tariff, Thursday; excise tax bill, Friday; sugar tariff, Saturday.

One calendar day will be devoted to each measure; amendments will be permitted and a short debate allowed, and the final vote on each will be taken the day of adjournment. The agreement came as the result of a democratic filibuster which had for two days held up the consideration of the big sundry civil appropriation bill, and which threatened to carry the session of congress beyond September 1.

The democrats abandoned their filibuster after the agreement was formally accepted by the senate. The result is expected to be a hastening of legislation on the senate, and an adjournment of congress by August 13 or 15. Encouraged by the decision of the senate to vote on the three measures named, the house of representatives may determine to act on the cotton tariff bill. If this measure is sent to the senate, it is believed an agreement will be secured to permit a vote on it, as on the other bills.

The important subjects remaining to be considered are the tariff bills, the Panama canal bill, the appropriation measures and the Alaska civil government bill. It is expected that the Panama canal bill will be disposed of in about two weeks.

The concessions made to the democrats have cleared up practically all points of difference in the senate over tariff and allied measures. An attempt will now be made to hasten action on the sundry civil appropriation bill which carries nearly $150,000,000 for the annual support of government bureaus.

The republican progressives show no disposition to reverse their former alliance with the democrats. They voted solidly against the chemical bill recently and today's vote on Senator Warren's motion to call up the sundry civil appropriation bill in preference to the wool schedule was a strict party vote as has been seen in the senate in a long time.

Yesterday Senator Simmons' motion to take up the wool bill was defeated, 35 to 23, and today he lost out by a vote of 37 to 27.

"Who are the real advocates of tariff revision now?" Senator Bacon inquired of The Constitution representative after the vote. "The republican insurgents have been claiming that the state of tariff revision rested with them, and they alone were urging action of tariff bills. Now you see how they have marched into the organization camp."

RICHESON'S BODY RESTS BY THAT OF MOTHER

Lynchburg, Va., July 18.—The last request of Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, electrocuted in Boston last May for the murder of Miss Aylin Linnell, was complied with today when his body was laid beside that of his mother. The father of the former pastor died the remains buried beside those of young Richeson's grandparents. A sister of the former pastor, Miss Russell Richeson, of Philadelphia, finally obtained consent of her father for the removal of the body. It was disinterred today, carried five miles through drizzling rain and replaced in the ground beside that of the mother. The sister, a brother, Edward, the undertaker and his helpers and a minister conducted a brief service, constituting all present. Miss Richeson came here quietly Wednesday and made arrangements with an undertaker for the removal.

NEGRO BABIES MARKED BY GREAT GOOD HUMOR

New York, July 18.—Negro babies, according to the child hygiene bureau of the New York city health department, are much better humored than other babies. A large number of pick-aninies are being cared for this summer in connection with the department's infant milk stations, and a report by the head of the bureau comments on their conduct as follows:

"The little negro babies are seldom fretful. They are the most philosophical baby patients we have. You rarely hear one cry, but the white babies cry a great deal, especially when they are being weighed."

PRESIDENT OF NORMAL MUST FACE CHARGES

Montgomery, Ala., July 18.—(Special.)—Charges against Professor B. F. Smith, president of the State Normal school at Moundville, will probably be investigated the latter part of this week by the special committee of the State Normal school board, designated by Governor O'Neal for this purpose. The appointment of this special committee by Governor O'Neal followed inquiries charges made against Professor Smith, who was re-elected president of the Moundville Normal college some time ago. Some of these charges were to the effect that Professor Smith devoted too much time to out-of-door sports, including baseball, football and other athletic exercises.

MAJOR GENERAL WOTHERSPOON MAY BE DETAILED ELSEWHERE

Major General William W. Wotherspoon will not return to the city and the department of the Gulf will have a new commanding officer soon, it reports current in local army circles are correct. General Wotherspoon has been in Washington now for some two weeks.

Following his advancement to the rank of major general, it was freely predicted that General Wotherspoon would be transferred to a more important post of duty. It is the custom of the department to place such high officers in charge of the active work of the army, and if General Wotherspoon's transfer is ordered, as it undoubtedly will be, it will be a post of active duty, where he will have command of a large body of troops. He has always been remarked as one of the most active of the high officers of the service and has seldom been out of the strenuous life of a post.

It is further said that Brigadier General Clarence Edwards, recently made a brigadier general of the line, will succeed General Wotherspoon, but there is no basis for such a rumor except the fact that General Edwards is in line for such a post. It will not be known who will be the next commanding officer to reside in Atlanta until the appointment is made by the secretary.

PANAMA TOLLS BEFORE SENATE

Brandegee Thinks Free Tolls for American Ships May Cost the Government Millions.

Washington, July 18.—Railroad control of the Panama canal, the rights of American ships to free tolls, and the form of government under which the canal management is to be placed, were subjects of discussion opposing arguments today, from Senators Brandegee, of Connecticut, and Townsend, of Michigan, during consideration of the canal bill in the senate.

Senator Brandegee urged the admission of all ships to the canal at a definite toll charge, with no favors to American vessels. If railroad-owned ships abused the privileges thus given them, he said, congress should then consider the question of nationalization of the interstate commerce commission, with power to deal with the situation.

Senator Townsend put in an estimate that foreign ships would pay approximately $10,000,000 a year in tolls under the provisions against which Great Britain has protested.

Senator Stone estimated that if the Hague should decide against the United States five years after the free toll law had been passed, about $10,000,000 would have to be repaid to foreign vessel owners.

Senator Townsend urged legislation to prevent railroads from getting any grip on the canal.

Senator Brandegee declared that the canal would do more to reduce rail rates from coast to coast than all the orders of the interstate commerce commission combined.

Senator Townsend addressed the senate in a long speech, in which he declared that the canal was a government property, and that it should be managed by the government, and not by the United States and Great Britain as the present bill provided.

JEWELS WORTH $25,000 STOLEN FROM A CARRIER

Chicago, July 18.—Jewelry valued at nearly $25,000 was stolen from a sample carrier today on a crowded street in front of the Silver Smith building, 12 South Wabash avenue. The thief escaped.

The sample carrier, McDermott, was held by the police. He declared that he had been entrusted with two cases of jewelry, instructed to meet a salesman at the Silver Smith building. He told the police he set the cases down in front of the building and sat on one of them, and that he had hardly noticed the disappearance of the cases beside him until the salesman appeared.

Several months ago a case containing jewelry valued at $25,000 was stolen, and the police assure McDermott was the carrier in charge of this case.

TO UNVEIL MONUMENT AT OLD FORT TOULOUSE

Montgomery, Ala., July 18.—(Special.)—Complete arrangements have been made for the dedication of the monument erected by the Alabama Society of Colonial Dames at old Fort Toulouse, on the Coosa river, in Elmore county. The exercises will be held on July 25, at 3 o'clock in the morning, and will be presided over by Dr. Thomas M. Owen, captain W. T. Sheehan of the Montgomery Advertiser, will deliver the historical address. Alex D. Pitts of Selma, will formally present the monument to the state in the name of the Colonial Dames, and the speech of acceptance will be made by Governor O'Neal.

Dinner will be served on the grounds by a Wetumpka committee, who will have charge of all details and other local matters. A reception committee from Elmore and Montgomery counties has been named by Mr. Harvey E. Jones, who has charge of the local arrangements for the Colonial Dames.

MEDICAL PRACTICE BILL WILL BE RECOMMENDED

The "Medical Practice Bill" will be reported back to the house today with the recommendation that it be passed. The committee on hygiene and sanitation, after hearing discussions on the bill, voted unanimously for its adoption.

The discussion hinged on the question of whether it would be just to all the medical schools to appoint a composite board of examiners. The bill provides that the board shall be composed of nine members, two of whom shall be eclectics, two homeopaths, two regular physicians, and three others to be selected from the state at large who are members in good standing in any of the branches of medical practice.

The bill is being urged by the Georgia medical association. It defines the duties of the members of the board, regulates the issuance and recording of licenses, and defines what is considered the practice of medicine. The object of the bill is to elevate the standard of preliminary education of applicants. The bill requires that applicants must be graduates of recognized schools that possess a full and complete faculty for the teaching of medicine, surgery, obstetrics in all their branches. The applicant must file a certificate with the clerk of the court in the county in which he lives, stating the extent of his school, clinical and hospital service.

BERGER SPEAKS FOR SOCIALISM

He Sounds the "Keynote" for His Party in Congress.

Washington, July 18.—Representative Berger, of Wisconsin, entered the house today with a "keynote" speech on socialism. He described the socialist ticket as "the international ticket of humanity."

"This country is divided into classes much as any monarchical country," declared Mr. Berger. "Therefore, the working class—the men and women who work either with their brains or their hands—must have a party of their own to take care of the interests of their own class."

Mr. Berger attacked Governor Woodrow Wilson as "a creature of the bosses," assailed President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt, and referred to William J. Bryan as a "dictator." The only hope for the working man, he asserted, lay in the socialist party.

Mr. Berger was subjected to a sharp cross-fire of interrogations from both sides of the house. He declared he was not a socialist, but a "socialist" in the sense of the "trusts" and "the ownership of the land" and "the ownership of the old age pension plan." He declared that he was a socialist in the sense of the "trusts" and "the ownership of the land" and "the ownership of the old age pension plan."

THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.

At the Forthright at the Forthright possesses all the qualities of a high winner in the attendance stakes, and despite the weather and the counter attractions, the theater has been crowded at daily matinee and evening performances, and there is an advance sale that indicates that Atlanta people will support real vaudeville at any time. The headline for next week is William Rock and Maude Fulton, the greatest dancing duo in the theatrical profession. Arthur Deagon, one of the star comedians of the present day, and other features are on the bill.

Pinchot Can't Increase Taxes.

Washington, July 18.—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester and Roosevelt champion, cannot increase his taxes in the district of Columbia though he wants to. Mr. Pinchot recently decided his mansion had been under assessed about $44,000 and proposed to pay more taxes. The assessors, however, think their figures are correct and declined Mr. Pinchot's money.

Negro Slayer Caught.

Huntsville, Ala., July 18.—(Special.)—Wine Garth, a negro murderer and all-around desperate character, who is wanted in Morgan county for the murder of a white man named Bowman, about a month ago, was captured here yesterday and taken to Decatur. He was located in his old haunts in this city and a deputy sheriff got the drop on him. A few days after his discharge he went to Harbelle and joined the construction gang of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. There he fell in with Bowman, whom he mistook for another man, and he beat Bowman to death with a wagon spoke before he realized his mistake. The murder was one of the most inhuman ever recorded in this locality.

TAFT IS JOKING ABOUT "BOMB"

Story That Infernal Machine Was Sent President Had No Foundation.

Washington, July 18.—After an unofficial investigation that lasted many hours, white house and secret service officials tonight denied the report published today that a bomb addressed to President Taft had found its way to the executive offices and that Assistant Secretary to the President Sherman P. Allen had been injured when he opened the package that contained it. Mr. Allen showed his hands to every man who called at the white house today. There was not a spot near a burn upon them. He denied categorically that he had seen the bomb described, and said he couldn't account for the report.

Secret service officials denied the story in emphatic terms, and President Taft apparently cared so little for it that he joked about it at breakfast in the white house, laughed about it with callers later and went to play golf as usual this afternoon at Chevy Chase unprotected and apprehensive of no dangers.

According to information that white house officials were able to gather, the report originated in the press room at the executive offices. A reporter for a New York morning newspaper told a friend with whom he was playing chess that the afternoon papers had missed a great "story."

The reporter was joking and the friends knew it. Other newspaper men who came in later, and to whom the tale was repeated, also understood, but from the reports that were taken to the white house today the story took root somewhere, and this morning it startled not only officials, but the capital and apparently the country as well.

Secretary to the President Carmel Thompson and Assistant Secretaries Forster and Allen said tonight that, although they worked late last night, they were not questioned about the report, and it was only when telephone calls pulled them out of bed with insistent clamor in the early hours that they heard that the president's life had been in danger. They pointed out the fact that no mail, no packages, nor to an assistant secretary, but is opened in another office 30 feet away, and that in consequence it would be quite impossible for Mr. Allen to acquire a burned hand in moving a bomb of America's John D. Wilkie, of the secret service, was angered by the report. He not only understood it, but said that it was unfortunate because the publication of such a story might mean that cranks throughout the country and all over the world would be aroused to action by it.

LEGISLATIVE SCHEDULE ARRANGED BY HOUSE

Washington, July 18.—With a view to utilizing every minute of the remaining time before adjournment, the house today adopted a special rule providing for an ambitious program of legislation. Under the rule the house will undertake consideration of measures providing for the abolition of the involuntary servitude of seamen and a betterment of seamen's conditions; registration of American ships and the importation duty free of materials for the construction and repair of such ships; regulation of radio communication; revision of the steamship inspection laws compelling the equipment of ocean-going vessels with wireless apparatus; extension of agricultural education through federal appropriations; and other common carriers.

Minority Leader Mann sought and obtained consent to add to the list, his bill forbidding the importation of diseased nursery stock or plants. The measure, he said, was of the highest importance to the agricultural interests of the country. Representative Austin, of Tennessee, republican, attempted to amend the bill, but was defeated.

"I have no objection to offer to the objections of the gentleman from Tennessee," said Mr. Rainey, sharply, when he acknowledged defeat, "especially since he is in favor here of the 'water power trust'."

Mr. Rainey Wednesday blocked two of Mr. Austin's water power bills.

BREMEN IS SCORED BY SAVANNAH

Dispute Is Considered by Cotton Exchange Officials of Country.

New York, July 18.—The cotton exchange officials, representing about twenty institutions of the country, met here today in the boardrooms of the New York Cotton exchange to consider foreign business methods, especially as regards foreign business methods. The dispute between the Savannah Cotton Exchange and the Bremen Cotton Exchange over the question of arbitration of claims was a feature of the discussion. The Savannah exchange has protested recently that the arbitration committee of the Bremen exchange has not dealt fairly in the matter of all owing claims.

Disputes as to quality, etc., frequently arise over cotton shipped abroad, and the Savannah exchange has recently claimed that when such matters have been referred to the Bremen arbitrators, the latter have invariably ruled against the southern and allowed unreasonable claims.

The exchange officials today appointed a committee of five to discuss the question of foreign trade methods. This committee submitted a report which will be acted upon tomorrow. This report was not made public.

HOW ERRORS ARE MADE IN THE CHICKEN YARD

I am in receipt of a letter from a gentleman who lives in a town, only in South Carolina, that causes me to write this article.

I was requested to answer his letter by mail and not through The Constitution. I wish, however, to quote from this letter, but will not mention the names of either of the parties or their places of residence. He says:

"In April of last year I bought of Mr. Blank three settings of what were supposed to be, and he sold them to me for pure White Wyandottes, but later on when they hatched I found they had some yellow on them and a few of them had just a little brown or buff color, but they feathered out white. Later in the year I bought six pullets of him and they are all pure white, but in the fall when I set their eggs and the little chicks hatched they were all either yellow or brown streaked, with dark legs, which should be yellow, but feathered out white. Is this a sign of impurity? Should a White Wyandotte not be snow white when hatched? It seems to me they should be. What I want is some that will be snow white when hatched and will appreciate it if you will advise me as to some responsible breeder of this bird from whom I can either get some stock or eggs. If I am to keep chickens I want the pure breed."

Complaints Frequent.

Complaints similar to this case are frequently coming to me. Both of these gentlemen are prominent business men. The shipper is a railroad official, high in authority. The White Wyandottes were evidently not pure in blood. There was an outcross of some other breed. How did it occur? I frequently see in the ad columns of poultry papers where men whom I know have just started in the poultry business offering for sale eggs and chickens of several breeds. These ads sometimes read: "White Orpingtons, Cook's strain; Rhode Island Reds, Loring Brown Strain; Plymouth Rocks, Johnson strain; Black Minorcas, Ledford strain," and so on. Now, the man who is offering the eggs and birds to the public thinks that he is honestly shipping out eggs and stock that are as good as those bred by the men who, after years of skillful breeding, have established a strain that is superior to those of his competitors.

The man who offers these four breeds is a novice. He knows nothing whatever about the art of mating these different breeds, so that they will produce chickens that will be as good or even better than their parents.

He fails to realize that the men from whom he purchased his eggs or stock found success through concentrating upon one breed.

They Stick to One Breed.

Who among the best poultrymen of this country stand out as those whom have been most successful? Why, the men who have bred only one breed. You can depend upon W. R. Finckel to send you eggs from White Rocks only, and that there will be no outcross shown in one of them, and so on down the line. The men who breed only one variety have no other eggs.

If a young Leghorn cockerel happens to fly over the fence and get into a pen of Silver Wyandotte pullets he thinks that no great harm has been done.

Now, I do not know, of course, but I think that if the facts were known this railroad poultryman was doing what the large majority of the "beginners" are doing today—attempting to breed several varieties—and their selling eggs and chickens that he believes to be pure bred, when they are not.

The evidence indicates that there was a cross of a yellow fowl in those White Wyandottes. Then, perhaps, another cross with a breed with dark legs. No one for a moment thinks that this prominent railroad official would purposely defraud the man who purchased the eggs or the fowls. It just happened that his several breeds got together for a short while, and from ignorance he supposed that no harm whatever had been done to either one of them.

How the Mistake Occurs.

I have often seen in the cities, the towns and on the farms at the end of the breeding season two or more different varieties of pure bred fowls, all turned together in a yard or on a range; then late in the fall separated and put back into the runs. Then they advertise the eggs in the papers and ship them out as pure. Later on the shipper is "cussed out" by the purchaser, who defended himself by avowing that his stock was pure bred, and that he could not account for the mixup in the chicks that came from the eggs sent out.

There is not an old poultryman in the United States who would advise anyone about to start in this business to commence with two varieties, but not one in a hundred would take his advice.

The people who purchase eggs for hatching are being slowly educated. They are reading poultry papers, and it will not be a great while before it will be very difficult for the "two-or-more-breeds-in-one-yard-man" to sell eggs or stock at all.

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Thursday's real estate announcements included a number of smaller sales and a little development news.

J. Hope Tigner, of Edwin P. Ansley's agency, has sold for Mrs. J. F. Hodges to Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden, No. 22 Columbia avenue, at the corner of Tenth street, for a consideration of $7,500. This is a two-story, ten-room house, on a lot 50x150.

R. A. Tomlinson, of the same agency, has sold for a client to W. C. Slaughter a tract of land on Pace's Ferry road for approximately $5,000. The tract has a frontage of 1,500 feet, with an irregular depth. It lies just north of Druid Hills.

Hammy's Street Activity.
Considerable activity has been displayed recently on Humphries street, in the neighborhood of Stephens street. Thomas & Anderson have just begun the construction of a brick store on the northeast corner of the intersection of these two streets. The building will cost about $5,000.

It was just across the street from this new store that Gilmer & Williamson recently sold a corner store and two frame dwellings, the sale of which has already been announced.

Gilmer & Williamson yesterday announced another sale in this neighborhood. This was the sale of two four-room cottages, on a lot 75x120, for H. C. Croftwhite to a client. The consideration was $3,300.

Gilmer & Williamson have also sold for C. R. Haskins to S. Baxter, No. 82 Windsor street, an eight-room two-story house, on a lot 50x130. The consideration was $4,250.

Washington Street Sale.
T. M. Fincher has sold for C. C. Childress to Arthur Turman, No. 136 Washington street, for $10,000. The consideration was $19,000, or at a rate of $280 a front foot.

The property consists of a two-story frame residence, on a lot 68x210, and lies between Fair street and Wood ward avenue.

Ansley Forum European Connections.
Negotiations were closed yesterday between Edwin P. Ansley's real estate agency and the Colonial Exchange and Land agency, of London, by which Mr. Ansley's agency becomes southern representative in America of a world-wide connection.

Captain R. G. Butler, of London, is in Atlanta arranging the final details of the connection. The Ansley agency will assume the duty of bringing European home-seekers in America to the south, and also that of selling them the homes.

South Side Auction Tuesday.
On next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Little & Green will offer the corner of Capitol and Georgia avenues at auction.

This consists of a lot 72x96, with an eight-room house on it. The terms of the sale will be one-third cash and the balance in one, two and three years at 6 per cent.

ANDREW W. JABS

AT MAC VEAUGH

Former Official Says Conditions in Treasury Department Are Chaotic.

Gloucester, Mass., July 18.—Dr. Platt Andrew, who recently resigned the office of assistant secretary of the treasury, issued a statement tonight in which he returned again to charges of the Secretary of Treasury MacVeagh contained in his letter of resignation.

He called on the president to make public certain "description of conditions in the treasury department," written, he says, by a high department official ten weeks before his resignation was submitted.

"This letter," says Dr. Andrews, "amply and specifically confirms every statement I have made."

Dr. Andrews' statement followed the reading of news dispatches from Washington within that time in which references were made to certain letters from treasury officials regarding his controversy with Secretary MacVeagh.

These letters Dr. Andrews has not seen, he said, but he expressed utmost confidence that they do not most confidently state that they do not.

"A single statement of mine as to Secretary MacVeagh's temperamental infirmities and as to the consequent difficulty in carrying on properly the business of the treasury department," he said, "is significant, not only of their opinions, but also of their character and courage."

"I note that Mr. Ralph, director of the bureau of engraving and printing, is quoted as having expressed allegiance to Secretary MacVeagh."

"I should be glad to read and affirm both of my letters in the exact form in which they were issued," he said, "but I am not at all sure that Mr. Ralph on several occasions had been with difficulty dissuaded from his intention to resign his office, due to no other reason than his loyalty to the treasury department."

"With Mr. MacVeagh."

"Mr. Kram, auditor of the postoffice department, is also cited as having written of his cordial relations with the secretary. It should likewise be noted in this connection that Mr. Kram had read and approved my letters in their final form, including this paragraph:

"I recall instances of great discouragement on part of Mr. Kram and on the part of his predecessor, Mr. Chance, not only because of lack of support and encouragement on the part of Mr. MacVeagh in their efforts towards increasing the efficiency of the service, but also because of a continual postponement of decisions about recommendations which they had made and unjustified complaints about any active procedure, even in mail matters, without authorization."

AFTER SLAYER OF THE GAMBLER

The mayor took occasion to give out a letter he sent yesterday to the commissioner asking that Becker and the other officers be brought before him.

The mayor's letter expressed surprise that Becker should sit down to dinner with a man of Rosenthal's character. "That he did, seems to be admitted," the mayor commented.

District Attorney Whitman had his say in a letter sent to Commissioner Waldo today, relating to the commissioner's request for an immediate and complete investigation of alleged partnership between police officers and gamblers.

"Dead Men Tell No Tales."

"When you asked this before," wrote Mr. Whitman, "I heard Rosenthal, who had made the charge, was alive. I had proceeded so far that he was to appear before the grand jury and give details and names of other gamblers to substantiate his charges. On the night preceding the day fixed, he was assassinated, evidently by men who feared his testimony, or their agents, on the principle that dead men tell no tales."

"You are now about to testify on the testimony of 14,000 policemen. Their real defense rests in the unraveling of this murder mystery and you have under your direction a small army of detectives and a fund of money applicable to detective work."

The newspapers have printed my autographic statement to the effect that I do not charge the police department with the murder of Rosenthal. The insinuation that I am not desirous of publicity in attacking the large body of policemen on account of the wrongdoing of a few is untrue, unfair and seems to be an attempt to turn public attention away from the vital point.

The Police and the Gamblers.

"Herman Rosenthal charged that he had been forced into partnership with a police lieutenant and that other gamblers were in a similar situation. Just as he was about to testify on this subject and to give details and names he was murdered publicly and dramatically. You demanded and continue to demand that his charge be investigated. How? By what witnesses? He is dead. He has taken the other names with him. In the face of this murder will other gamblers rush forward to tell. Will guilty policemen confess? In this inquiry one that can be conducted except by the agency of detectives, which branch of the public service is under your charge and direction?"

Aaron Levy, counsel for Louis Libby and William Shapiro, alleged co-defendants in the "murder case," intimated that his clients would be glad to tell all they knew if the district attorney accepted them as witnesses. He asserted they were themselves innocent of any part in the crime.

Sam Paul, who delivered the message of Deputy Commissioner Dougherty yesterday to bring Rose to headquarters, later today was closeted with the deputy commissioner and Inspector Hughes. Five other men later joined Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Sam Paul. The conference lasted a couple of hours.

Dougherty said after the talk that he believes the men who committed the murder are still in New York city.

Murderers Will Be Caught.

Rose gave himself up, the deputy commissioner said, after the latter had told "Bridgie" Webber, arrested yesterday in the case, to find Rose and tell him to come immediately to headquarters.

"I am positive," said Dougherty later on, "that I shall have the murderers of Rosenthal in custody before long, and I believe I know who did the shooting. Rose's statement to me does not implicate Lieutenant Becker. I believe Becker was entirely ignorant that the murder was going to take place."

"Rose told me of his whereabouts Monday night. He acknowledged he was in the gray automobile, but not at the time the shooting occurred."

"His statements as to his whereabouts at the time of the shooting are very vague. Rose said that if anybody used the car afterwards 'he did not know what happened. He admits he hired the car.'"

Rose was arraigned before the coronator, who remanded him without bail for an examination on Monday.

Driver of Car Talks.

Hundreds of the gambling fraternity attended the funeral of the murdered gambler today.

Aaron J. Levy, counsel for Louis Libby and William Shapiro, who are under arrest and are the alleged owners of the murder car, gave out a statement today in regard to Shapiro's conduct at the time of the murder. Shapiro has admitted, according to the police, that he was the driver of the car.

"Shapiro" said Mr. Levy, "told me that after the shooting he was working with his motor and pretended it would not start. One of the parties said: 'Don't stall that engine. You had better get it started and be quick about it.'"

"Shapiro" still hesitated, and one of the parties said: 'Go on, you fool, get started; don't you know that the cops are fixed and no one will bother us? It is a clean get-away.'" fore the farmers as to how we stand for this bill," he suggested.

FARMERS' TAX ACT WINS TEST VOTE

The demand for roll call was sustained. Then came the test as to the strength of the bill. The measure was supported by 123 members.

Those who voted for the postponement of the bill, which would have meant defeat, were Messrs. Ballard, Baker, Burney, Callaway, Frederick and Garlington.

The bill now takes its place on the calendar as the special order for July 25.

The bill to require certain county officers to keep a record of costs and fees collected by them and submit a statement of such to the grand jury was passed by the house. The vote was 123 for and 11 against.

The bill applies to ordinaries, clerks of city and superior courts, solicitors, sheriffs, tax collectors, tax receivers, county surveyors and coroners.

Many Amendments Offered.

Amendments were hurled at the bill with no effect.

Representative Wilson, of Gwinnett, offered an amendment to include justices of the peace.

Representative Adams, of Hall, sought to amend the bill by making failure to file a statement contempt of court.

To compel the officers to make a report of the total amount of fees received from what service was offered as an amendment by Representative Harrell, of Stewart.

Representative Hollis, of Taylor, sought to include all officers in the employ of the state.

The amendments were all lost except the suggestion by Representative Spence, of Carroll, that the bill be corrected to insert 1913 instead of 1912.

$500 Locker Tax Returned.

The house, after juggling three years, with the resolution by Dr. Brown, of Fulton, to refund $500 locker tax to the Freundschafsbund, a fraternal order, passed the measure.

When the prohibition law went into effect, the officers of the association, acting under misapprehension, paid over to the state $500 as a locker tax. The association did not operate to locker club. Its functions were enjoyed by the Germans of the city of Atlanta and beer was one of the refreshments used.

"The tax was paid under misapprehension," explained Dr. Brown to the house after relating the above facts. "I therefore, ask that the amount be refunded."

Representative McCreath, chairman of the appropriations committee, said that the committee was satisfied that the tax should be refunded.

"I can certify that the Fulton delegation is right in this matter," said Dr. Westmoreland in jest.

"And I want to state, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, that the Fulton delegation is right in this matter."

There was not a dissenting vote against the passage of the bill.

WOODROW WILSON NAMES MANAGERS

thirty-five or forty men, representing of course every section of the United States. Names had hardly been reached in considering this committee, he added. In addition, he said, there would be appointed a finance committee representing every state in the union.

The national committee, from each state, he declared, would be asked to suggest the names of the men best qualified in his state and their names would receive first consideration.

Chairman McCombs said headquarters would be opened in New York in the theater district within a week.

While the power of appointment of the campaign committee rested nominally with Mr. McCombs there are indications that he followed every suggestion of Governor Wilson and that the appointments were actually made by the nominee. The committee was announced by the governor, who added:

"It is a matter of gratification that it all worked out so admirably."

Organization to Be Thorough.

The appointment of the campaign committee is but the first act, the governor said, of the real organization of the campaign. It will be thorough and carried to the smallest detail, no section being neglected or overlooked.

In taking from the direct charge of the national committee the management of the campaign, Chairman McCombs said that there has been intent supervision that body. Every national committee, the chairman stated, would have all he could do during the campaign, independently of the campaign committee and the nominee and the chairman will use the services of every one.

The committee is largely composed of men who stayed by the governor in his fight for the nomination. A notable exception is Senator Reed, of Missouri, who was one of the warmest supporters of Champ Clark. Another man whose name had not been mentioned in connection with the campaign committee is former Judge King, of Oregon, who from the bench sustained the validity of the initiative and referendum in Oregon and, after retiring, recently won his contention in the supreme court of the United States.

Governor Wilson said he did not know when the campaign committee would meet again, but indicated that it would hold frequent sessions, beginning at an early date.

CONVENTION WILL DECIDE ABOUT NEGRO DELEGATES

In the issuing of statements to the public and the enunciation of plans and programs, the two divisions in Georgia of T. Roosevelt's third party movement are running a close race, with the mixer-color team one ahead at the last scoring. The charges of St. Julien Yates, president of the White League, that the followers of Dewar were acting without authority in calling a convention, were answered last night in a communication signed "The National Progressive Committee for Georgia."

The fifth district convention is set by them for noon Monday, July 22, in the Aragon hotel, when two delegates to the state convention, July 25, will be selected. As to allowing the negro to participate, which the White League has flatly refused to do, the committee says they feel that this subject is too important for personal decision, but that it should be left to the votes of the delegates in conference on July 25.

Chance for Fishermen.

Nashville, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—The Juhan fish pond, which is 4 miles long and 1/2 mile wide, will be let off Thursday and Friday. The pond hasn't been let off since it was dammed, nine years ago. Tickets will be sold for $2, and parties can fish in any way except shooting and dynamiting.

THREE ARE CUT AT PARK DANCE

the head with a whisky bottle and knocked almost to the floor.

Reese Waide, dancing with a girl past the scene of the fight, stopped to interfere. He struck at the man who had felled his father, and also was hit upon the head with a bottle. Mr. Waide arose and flung himself headlong into the fight. Someone pushed him across the face with a keen-bladed knife and he fell against the bannister railing, bleeding and crying for help.

Outsider Is Injured.

W. W. Segrest, a youth of 47 Garden street, who was at the park on a pleasure trip, jumped into the affray as Mr. Waide was slashed across the throat. For his pains he received a terrific blow across the head with a whisky bottle. Segrest attempted to sidestep the blow, and in doing so managed to escape the full force of the kick.

Policeman C. H. Bailey, running into the pavilion, came across Herndon standing in the shadow of the column in the shadow of the pavilion trying to stench the flow of blood from a wide wound in his neck. He immediately was placed under arrest. At police headquarters he stated that when he saw the men jump upon Mr. Waide he attempted to interfere and someone— he didn't know who, he said, cut him in the throat. By the time he could strike back, he declared, the crowd had rushed in and he could see nothing of his antagonist.

Herndon denied all complicity in the affray, excepting that of acting as peacekeeper. He also declared that he knew none of the gang, and that he had not come to the park in their company.

The guests of the dance were rushed to their homes in private automobiles. The women were badly frightened, and many were placed in the machines in a fainting condition. Several of the gangsters were recognized, the police allege, and efforts are being put forth rigidly to apprehend them. The arrest of two leaders is expected today, as they have been secured their names, and from them an effort will be made to learn the names of the remainder.

Another Arrest Made.

At 1 o'clock this morning another arrest was made for complicity in the fight. L. L. Giffin, a 19-year-old youth, giving 65 Harold avenue as his address, was taken into custody by the police when he appeared at police station to inquire about Herndon. Headquarters had been notified to station a lookout for Giffin as it was believed he had participated in the affray. When he was taken into custody, he was asked the amount of bond necessary to Herndon Police Captain Mayo, notification spots of blood upon Giffin's shirt and collar asked his name, "Giffin," the youth replied, and he was placed in the prison on a charge of suspicion.

He denied all connection with the affair, and stated that he had known nothing of it until informed by the police.

Exposition Is Boosted.

Alfred Chambers and S. B. Turman, representing the city and the county, outlined plans for the Lakewood exposition, or fair, and told of their recent trip through the east and to Toronto, Canada, where such a permanent fair is established. Their talks were illustrated with stereopticon slides.

When the meeting was over Victor Kieleshaber was called on to talk of how other southern cities improve their property owners to pay for all permanent improvements, but to make the payments come in ten annual installments so that it will be a drain on no one. In this way the income of the city can be used to keep up those improvements already made.

The meeting broke up with enthusiasm undiminished, and a motion to make the meetings monthly was unanimously carried.

FREED IN TENNESSEE; WANTED IN ATLANTA

Just as the prison doors clanged behind him after he had served a sentence for forgery in the state prison at Nashville, Fred Deibel, aged twenty-eight, was re-arrested upon a warrant issued in Atlanta for cheating and swindling and attempted forgery.

Detective George Bullard left yesterday afternoon for Nashville, and will return with Deibel some time tonight. The latter is said to have admitted to prison authorities that he secured a large sum of money from parties in this city by fraudulent methods, but that he declared that the sentence he had just completed was for a crime which he was innocent.

Detectives declared that Deibel secured funds from several law agencies in Atlanta by a fake legacy scheme, and that he was apprehended while attempting to forge for $7,000 upon a prominent local bank.

Deibel says he is a son of Judge Fred Deibel, of New Orleans, a prominent Louisiana justice, and that his home is in that city. It is alleged that he also was wanted in New Orleans and Memphis.

GOV. BROWN GRANTS RESPIRE TO GIBBONS

Charles Gibbons, a negro, will not hang today at Louisville, for Governor Brown last night commuted his sentence. He will be transferred to one of the county jails to serve the rest of his natural life.

Policeman Dan Cook saw a car answering the description of the one which had been stolen coming toward town along Decatur street shortly before midnight. He telephoned the police station and Officers Anderson, McWilliams, Sturdivant and Clark spread a cordon across the street. When Harper saw the waiting police he turned the machine into an alley, jumped out and tried to flee, but was caught.

He refused to tell where he obtained the switch-plugs and rain coats which he was taken to the station house. The machine was identified by Dr. Shallenberger.

MAYOR UPSETS AT COMMERCE DINNER

for the spice of humor which had been injected into it.

Attendance Is Large.

Nearly three hundred diners assembled for the evening in the hall, and to the music of Wurm's orchestra were served a delightful two-course supper.

Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Baptist church, delivered the invocation, in which he returned thanks for the progress and development of the "city of destiny," and asked divine aid in the work of the future.

The meeting was a renewal of the open forums which were held some years ago, and which by a unanimous vote last night will be held monthly in the future. The important items of work of the chamber came up for discussion.

President Moore outlined plans for the reorganization of the chamber along the line of bureaus to bring the organization to highest degree of activity and efficiency. He paid a splendid tribute to Secretary Walter G. Cooper, for whom much of the progress of the chamber is due, but said that no one man could direct the complex affairs of the chamber and keep abreast of the growing needs of the city. He gave statistics of the bureau work in other cities.

Plan for New Building.

Secretary Cooper sketched what has been done toward the purchase of the Y. M. C. A. property for a permanent home for the chamber, and when he told of the $20,000 check paid on the debt Wednesday there was prolonged applause. The chamber gets possession of the building between April 15 and July 15 of next year, and expects to move in after the remodeling some time in the early fall.

Frederic J. Paxton told of the municipal bureau, which modeled after the New York bureau will work with the city government to stop leakages and mismanagement in the expenditure of funds. He made it clear that such a bureau is no criticism on the government, but is purely expert opinion to get the best for the city's money that can be gotten.

The funds for the first year's work have been raised by private subscription, and an expert from New York will arrive in the city in September to open the office. Much good is expected from it.

Brooks Morgan had the subject of the coming exposition of Atlanta-made goods, to show the city exactly what she can do, and the amount of interest in the purchase and use of articles made here. He gave figures on the manufacturing wealth of the city.
